

PSYTECH SA (PTY) LTD – DISCLAIMER FORM

Dear GeneSys/Online Test User

Please read the paragraphs below and sign your understanding of its contents below.

The GeneSys 3 Online testing facility is made available to registered Psychologists/Psychometrists (Independent Practice) and users of the GeneSys system or on-line GeneSys users on request. South African users must be aware of the following:

The user name, Password and / or PIN number for online testing are meant to restrict access to the online testing facility to qualified test users.

This information is issued to a specific individual and must not be passed on to others.

Psytech South Africa DOES NOT condone unsupervised administration of any psychological test, even if the technology makes it possible. It is the test user’s responsibility to use the available technology within the framework of the South African legislation, professional regulations and ethical code regarding the use of psychometric tests.

Psytech South Africa cannot be held responsible for any complaints, disciplinary or legal action that may arise from testing which is done unsupervised on the Internet.

Psytech South Africa is in the process of updating the On-line Ability Tests to the standardised South African version.

Please contact Psytech SA offices for information on which tests/assessments are currently available for on-line testing.

Based on the client’s needs, we will create access to the on-line facility.

In terms of the HPCSA requirements, please note that the online (internet) reports can only be forwarded to the email address of a registered psychologist / psychometrist (independent practice). It is therefore the responsibility of the registered professional to inform Psytech SA of changes to email addresses in the event that they leave or are no longer servicing the organisation, so appropriate action can be taken to block your old email accounts.

Furthermore, if you as the registered person suspect that your access details have been infringed in anyway, please inform us immediately to enable us to take the necessary action to protect your account.
